Sardinia 2009

Cookielicious summer 2009

Probably one of the most beautiful and exclusive cruising grounds in the Mediterranean. Sardinia is an outstanding Island with many beautiful anchorages, an archipelago of islands marked as a national park & area of outstanding natural beauty. With some of the most exclusive restaurants, bars & nightlife to be found in the Mediterranean, fantastic sailing days will be made complete with the perfect sunset and perfect night whether you choose the secluded anchorage as your al fresco dining option or join in with the party onshore.

Day one: You will arrive into Olbia where a transfer will bring you to Cookielicious, she will be anchored off the exclusive resort of Porto Cervo. With the beautiful boutiques and the bars in the marina to wander around and the extensive bay of Golfo Pero to play on water sports in this will be a wonderful introduction to the Costa Smeralda.

Day Two: Weighing anchor we shall start sailing north through the archipelago of La Maddalena. With so many beautiful anchorages to have lunch and a swim in it will be difficult to decide, however may we suggest the anchorage of Liscia di Vacca, a beautiful bay perfect for swimming, snorkeling & all our water sports fun... test the windsurfing skills, go for a water ski or wakeboard.

Day Three: Today we will lift anchor after a beautiful breakfast and head through the archipelago to the main island of La Maddalena. En route we will drop anchor for lunch and another swim before docking in the main town. La Maddalena is a pretty, busy little town with some nightlife and historic features which will make for a lovely afternoon/evening stroll before dinner.

Day Four: We will slip our berth from the Island of Maddelena and go for a fantastic sail towards a beautiful sandy bay of Liscia where a fantastic beach & fun packed water sports afternoon awaits you. A beach BBQ whilst the sun sets over Sardinia will round off yet another brilliant day onboard.

Day Five: Heading south today towards Golfo di Marinella. A longer sail down through the islands may allow us to fly the cruising Shute and gently make our way south. There will be another opportunity to visit the exclusive resort of Porto Cervo as we pass by, perhaps for lunch, before reaching our destination.

Day Six: Sailing today we will be for as long or as short as you decide, coupled with a fantastic water sports area and the opportunity to explore ashore today really is your decision. Whatever you choose tonight we will be anchored off the lovely marina resort of Porto Rotondo.

Day Seven: After breakfast guests will have time to visit the marina of Porto Rotondo before leaving for Olbia airport.

Please note that all anchoring locations & itineraries are subject to change due to weather and wind conditions. Extended itineraries are available and specific location requests can be fulfilled if at all possible.
